HOMECOMING

Homecoming is a unique tradition at the University of Rhode Island celebrated by students and alumni of all ages. On a large field people, cars, trucks, and moving vans stretch for miles. Music blares in all directions. The smell of the barbecue and the sound of beer cans cracking open fills the air. There is laughter, singing, dancing, and fun. Both students and alumni anticipate this October day for months.

At the same time there are shouts in the background as friends and family cheer on the Rhody Rams as they challenge the rival Maine Bears. The game begins with the recognition of past football players and marching band members. Half-time continues this support of URI students and alumni by honoring the Homecoming King and Queen, Jeremiah Stone and Melanie Mecca. These two individuals are crowned for their outstanding campus and community involvement and their upstanding personalities.

Whether celebrating at the football stadium or in the field behind it, Homecoming is a memorable event for all. Sorority sisters and fraternity brothers reunite. Old friends rebuild bonds with those they have not seen in years. Recent graduates come back with their "real world" stories and relive their college experiences. Older alumni witness the remarkable changes that have occurred at the University. Homecoming reminds us all of the days long gone, but not forgotten. It keeps the memories and experiences of the University of Rhode Island alive, in every way possible.

TAILGATING

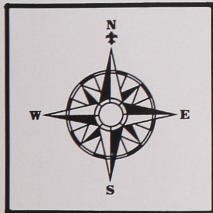

DOWN THE LINE

Every URI student knows that when a URI student goes home and tells their friends about the parties that they have been to or their plans to move "down-the-line", they receive confused looks. Let's face it. People outside of URI do not understand the concept of "down-the-line". So what do we tell our friends and family. What is "down-the-line"?

Down the line has many different connotations and as URI graduates we will remember it as being more than a place down near the ocean where students rent houses. As freshman, it meant overcrowded, wild parties. You did not know most of the people there and probably didn't even know who was throwing the party, but that did not matter. You were drinking, hanging out with your own friends, and meeting upper class men/women. These parties usually ended because either the keg went dry or the police showed up.

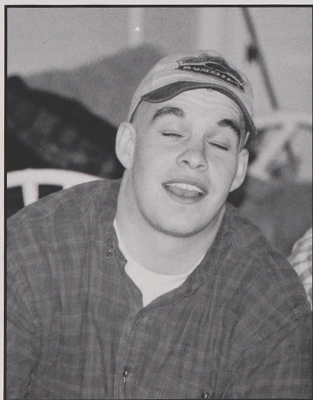

As sophomores and juniors it continued to be parties and memories, but it also became home. You would get together with three or four past roommates, suite mates and friends to live in a house which was cleaner, quieter and more private than the dorms and fraternity/sorority houses. It was a treat to have your own bedroom, something every student craves. It was also great to have a television room where you could have cable and didn't have to watch The Streets of San Francisco and Chips reruns everyday. The big thrill about living "down-the-line" was having a house of your own where you could host parties which usually ended up with your house being trashed, possessions stolen, and a wad of money in your pocket which was generated from the collection at the door.

For seniors "down-in-line" took on one more definition. It became a place where final memories were made. Most houses were chosen for their easy access to local bars and to old time friends. Parties were not as important as having the "gang" over for happy hour. A house became a place for quiet talks about the future, private celebrations, movies on Saturday afternoons and tears of disappointment. During this time in life most seniors had cut down on both school activities and classes. The mind set changed to jobs, graduate school and what will happen to close friends after graduation. It was a time when memories and private times are cherished the most.

Many arguments, laughter and secrets live in various houses scattered throughout "down-the-line". Whether you lived in Mattunick, Bonnet Shores, Eastward Look, Durkin Cottages, the Condos by Scarborough, or the houses by Charlie O's and Bonvue, you have filled it with experiences that cannot be appreciated by anyone outside of URI.

Dorm Life

Ladies on the Couch is billed as an "uncensored two-woman comedy that explores the simple lives of two gay women. The show, directed by Susan Messing and starring Kari Finn and Susan Howard, is one of few two women shows dealing with sexuality currently running anywhere. With their satirical strength, they explore issues such as discrimination, family confrontation, and romantic relationships between same sex couples.

Homosexuality is a controversial subject and according to Maura Troester of The Reader Chicago, these two women do a great job making it a little easier to swallow. Different scenes are acted out by Finn and Messing.

In between scenes Finn and Howard play the guitar and sing a couple of tunes. The show was an enjoyable one and the overall message one receives goes something like, "Sure, dealing with your sexuality can be painful at times, but there are also some tender, funny moments and they're worth putting onstage." -Maura Troester, The Reader Chicago, IL.

overnor Lincoln Almond faced a full house of students and staff eagerly awaiting to hear his plans for the URI's upcoming budget. Almond stressed the importance of cooperation between higher education and business in Rhode Island during his speech in Edwards.

"The linkage between higher education and business development cannot be underestimated," Almond said. He also said that the business environment of Rhode Island can be strengthened through capitalizing on the power of URI's educational institutions.

"New ideas and new products will form new companies," Almond said. Adding that a collaboration should be made between the state and URI to utilize these new ideas and inventions being created at URI. He cited the new manufacturing technique created by URI's robotics department as an example.

Almond said that he plans to set aside $1 million to create "centers of excellence" to bring the colleges and universities of

URI GREET'S LINCOLN ALMOND

Rhode Island together. He also told students, "You all represent the state of Rhode Island as well as representing the University."

"My roots are here at URI. This is where I consider myself an alumnus and always will. URI will continue to become a great university," Almond said.

Student senate president, Mike Anders, introduced the governor and gave the audience a brief background on Almond's past achievements. Almond, an alumnus of URI, previously served as a United States attorney. Anders said that although Almond has achieved many successes, "he remembers fondly his days at URI."

Anders said that he has witnessed positive changes since he first began his college career, however he said a need for better funding still exists. He said that Almond recognizes URI as an alum and all its achievements it has to offer to the state. "For every dollar you put into URI, you get $4 in return," Anders said.

After Almond's speech, he answered questions from the audience, many of which were concerning the budget. Almond said that we are "we are facing a tough budget for '96 and a tough budget for '97, although no further cuts in the higher education budget are expected".

A professor from URI told Almond that when he was xeroxing articles there was not enough paper left due to budget cuts. He said, "I love the school, love my job, and I don't mind taking $50 out of my pocket this time, but we have to draw the line somewhere."

Almond said that URI was not appreciated by many of the people in Rhode Island. He said that URI and the other state colleges need better publicity. He again stressed the importance of URI and the business community working together.

BELL HOOKS

—article by Heather Gordon, Good Five

"If you want to be somebody, if you want to go somewhere, you better wake up and pay attention." The URI Gospel Choir guest speaker bell hooks with these profound words. Before a crowd of close to 600 people, bell hooks, author, educator, and feminist, delivered a lecture on "Multiculturalism in Higher Education." Her speech addressed issues such as white supremacy, racism, multiculturalism and feminism.

Focusing primarily on white supremacy and the attitudes that are inherent within ideology, hooks compelled students, teachers, faculty and guests to unite in collective solidarity. "The enemy is not white people, it is white supremacy," hooks said. She said that it is not only white people who take on the values of white supremacy, but minorities also internalize these beliefs. She urged the crowd to, "think about how people of color are dividing themselves . . . who does it serve?"

Discouraging exclusivity, hooks emphasized the need for cooperation among all cultures . . . She continued her discussion by distinguishing between the reality of multiculturalism and the institutionalization of diversity. "A lot of black people are disturbed by institutional multiculturalism, because it pushes them out of the way for other minority groups," hooks said. She added that "Positively, multiculturalism is a corrective to a Eurocentric vision of racism."

Following her speech, hooks fielded questions from members of the audience. When one student asked about the representations of people of color in one popular culture she answered with the following, "indeed people of color are misrepresented, however, we do not use our power as consumers to demand more change in our culture. The responsibility and accountability lies with all of us."

WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP SUMMIT

Campus leaders united for the 1995 Women's Leadership Summit, during which both men and women discuss the role of women in leadership positions in today's society.

The summit commenced with Myrth York, former Rhode Island State Senator and Rosie Pegueros, Assistant Professor of History, and former National NOW representative.

Pegueros opened her interactive speech by sharing with the audience some of the people in her life that helped shape who she is. She also mentioned how she had a tough time as a child finding Latinas like herself as role models. Pegueros asked the audience to write down a role model that made a difference in their lives and responses ranged from family members and actresses to women professors at URI. The issue of Affirmative Action was also discussed by Pegueros. She mentioned the concern that existed among Latinas when she was in school about why they were accepted to college and pointed out that this concern still exists today.

York followed Pegueros with an informal talk on everything from politics to the slow changes women have accomplished. York attributed her start in politics to Geraldine Ferraro. She discussed the fact that women bring a difference to politics. York said women bring an outsider's view. She said that as we see more women getting involved in politics, we will see less of a difference in the gender roles in the political arena. York said women's voices are not being heard on important issues.

"We lose because of this," York said. She urged people to vote and vote. York also said people need to talk to one another and let people know we can work together and get things done.

Following the keynote speakers was dinner and three focused discussions. The topics of these discussions were, issues for young women in a highly charged political environment, women's networking and mentoring relationships as valuable tools, and women's ways of leading using your personal power more effectively. Ending the evening was a series of two workshops and a dessert.

TAKE A LOOK

The Story of "Old Ben Butler."

The remains of this old namesake, which has for the last few years been silently resting upon our front campus, has, I venture to say, a very unique history.

Born for the protection of our national unity, as the date (1861) upon its brazen sides may indicate, it served, we judge, faithful to its calling, upon one of our old warships throughout our late war. Several years after, the ship upon which it had given service, having passed its days of usefulness, was dismantled at Newport.

Just before an election in which Benjamin F. Butler was a prominent candidate, one of "South County's" well-known citizens, Captain George N. Kenyon, an ardent admirer of General Butler, purchased our friend in order to celebrate the General's election. This shows the origin of "Old Ben Butler's" name.

Now begins its peculiar career. To say the least, its new owner was a very odd person, and so some of the duties imposed upon "Old Ben Butler" were rather unusual. We hear stories that whiskey bottles were tightly corked and shot far out to sea; and Capt. Kenyon himself told me that at the end of a clam bake, held at his Gilbert Stuart home, the close of the feast was celebrated by filling "Old Ben Butler" with the remains of the clam chowder and other food and discharging it high into the air. So much for the history of "Ben Butler" previous to its connection with the school.

During the winter and spring of 1891-'92, the future of our beloved institution was a question of grave doubt. At one time its very existence seemed threatened. In the face of all discouragements, however, our cause was ably and vigorously championed by the principal, board of managers, and a few other firm friends. As the ripe fruits of this hard fought struggle, the existence of the institution was not only secured, but a very decided impetus forward was given, since the school was raised to the grade of a college with power to confer the degree, Bachelor of Science. It was for the purpose of sounding forth the loud acclamations of our joy for this victory that "Old Ben Butler" was brought here.

When in the spring it seemed likely that the legislature would pass the bill upon which our prosperity depended, the active desire for a jubilation seemed to fill the minds of all the students and certainly some of the faculty. A noise, and a big one, seemed to be the most natural way of expressing our feelings. Huzzahs, shot-guns, or the ringing of bells seemed far too tame. Nothing short of a cannon, and the largest one attainable-no mere toy-could begin to express the enthusiasm which possessed us. How to secure such a cannon was the next question. Kind and resourceful Mr. Rodman was, as usual, ready with a helping hand. He told of "Ben Butler" and the way to reach its owner. Our principal, soon to become our esteemed president, was consulted. He also was in sympathy with the scheme, and aided greatly by judicious counsel and financial assistance.

Accordingly Mr. Fred Proseus, an enthusiastic supporter of school spirit and a thoroughly good fellow, accompanied by your humble scribbler, set out upon the trip to see Capt. Kenyon and try to procure his cannon. The horse and carriage used on the trip were lent us by Prof. Towar, the nature of the errand no doubt increasing his willingness to do so. We saw Capt. Kenyon, who received us very cordially, and seemed heartily pleased with the idea of lending "Old Ben Butler" for our purpose. Joyfully we set out to find some one to move the cannon. Mr. Chaplin, a neighbor of the Captain's, was soon secured, five dollars being his price for the job.

The cannon, smuggled in by a back way in order that the villagers might be the more thoroughly surprised at the demonstration, arrived at the school the very day the legislature passed our bill. Powder, which, by the way, was for blasting and not for cannon use, came from Westerly, and primers from Providence. Old stockings and other forms of underclothing were utilized in the making of the cartridges, all the students taking special pleasure in contributing to the supply.

All was in readiness when the news of success in the legislature came. Right heartily did "Old Ben" at once begin to thunder forth loud acclamations of triumph. Just as rapidly as the swab could be worked and a charge rammed home, the thunderings were repeated. By reason of active assistance in securing the cannon, friend "Pro" and myself were indulged in positions at the gun, numbers "one" and "two."

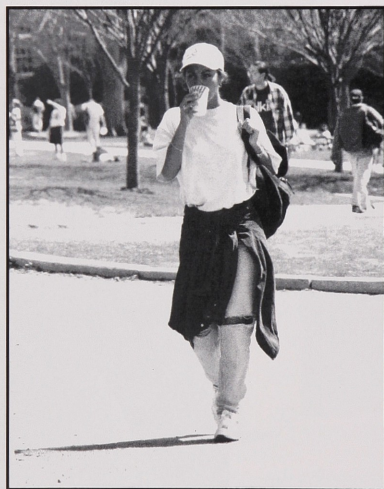

This vigorous demonstration lasted until nearly sunset, when it was deemed best to allow "Old Ben" to cool off a little and rest his hoarse throat. Not all of the students, however, were content to cease the celebration then. What a capital plan it would be to remind the villagers again at midnight that a new college had been created in the state! The two persons before-mentioned were the advisors and executors of this plan. The cartridges had been used up in the afternoon so that it was necessary to make others. At about half-past eleven, therefore, we quietly absented ourselves from the rest of the fellows and proceeded to what is now the blacksmith's shop, then in use as a pest hospital. We had been using two pounds of powder in a cartridge, but Capt. Kenyon had told us that "Ben" was easily good for four or five pounds. In order to prove the truth of his statement, of course it was necessary to use more than two pounds; accordingly we thought best to increase the size of the charge somewhat. The cartridge was made and "Old Ben" was once more called upon to proclaim the existence of our new college. Right vigorous was the response to our bidding. At previous discharges the gun had made no very forcible demonstration by way of motion, but this time accompanying the somewhat augmented thunder of the discharge, was a clean leap for joy of at least six or eight feet which landed the old fellow completely off the skids upon which it rested, careened considerably to one side. No damage was done, however, and after a deal of hard work with crowbars and so on, we managed to get the gun back once more to a position of stable equilibrium.

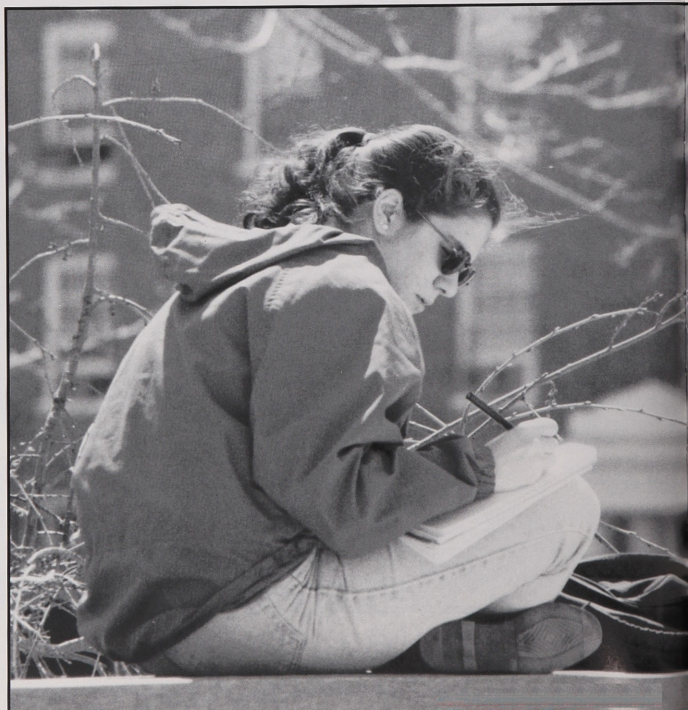

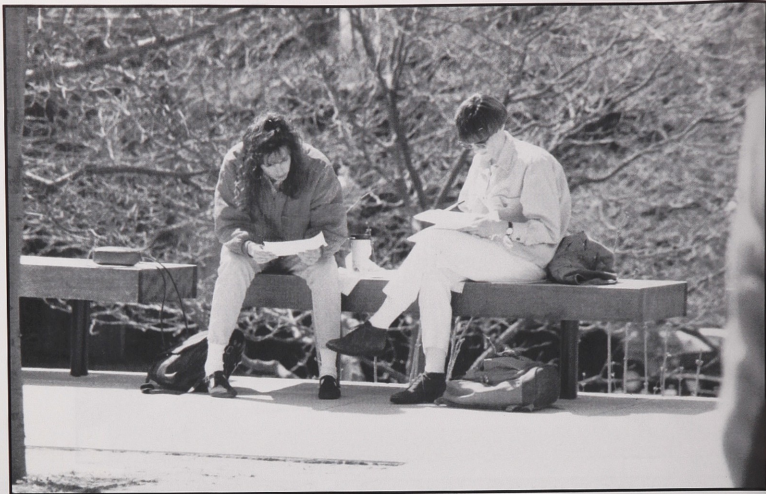

The idea of a sunrise gun formed the next link of our celebrating cerebration. Moreover, we had not quite reached the limit of charge which the Captain had assured as "Ben Butler" was amply able to handle. Another cartridge was made with a generous increase in the powder ration. At sunrise we were again tamping "Ben's" long stomach with a square meal containing a goodly supply of relishes and desserts in the shape of wet grass, sods, leaves, paper, etc. To be sure we thought that the meal would cause a considerable strain upon most stomachs, but we had great faith in "Old Ben's." To have him speak up loudly for "Old Kingston" was our desire. Alas! even so staunch a warrior as "Old Ben Butler" may at last be forced to succumb. The addition of the extra straw may indeed break the camel's back. The primer was snapped! one agonized leap into the air, a suppressed and "pumpkiny" moan of anguish, and "Old Ben Butler" fell back lifeless, dead of an over-strained stomach.

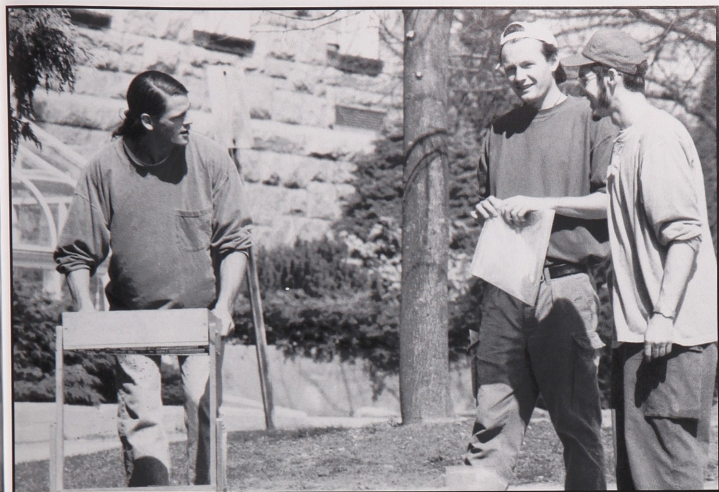

"Too bad" ventured one at last. Quietly we moved nearer where "Old Ben" lay. A few strokes of sympathy over his great broken body and we turned in silence toward the dormitory to spread the news of the sad calamity. Soon an atmosphere of subdued quiet pervaded the whole institution. "Ben Butler" gone? "Hard fate," was the response. Our president, always sympathetic and kind, was unusually quiet and full of feeling in his remarks in chapel that morning: sorrowful that "Old Ben Butler" was gone, but thankful that none of us were injured.

E. H. Mathewson, 1894.

The non-violent CD-ROM game Myst by Cyan, Inc. becomes a best-selling phenomenon, winning legions of devoted fans and spawning imitators. The fantasy-adventure's graphic visuals are hyper-real; the written word is the key to the mystery.

One of Lake Superior's enduring mysteries is solved by scientists and marine historians who explore the wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald, an ore carrier that sank with its crew in a 1975 storm. The ship, overused and in poor condition, was ripped apart by 90-mph winds and 30-foot waves. Most of the 29 crewmen are entombed inside the wreckage, well preserved in the 39° waters.

A lively new cafe society centers around the 5,000 gourmet coffeshops which spring up around the country. To the often young and trendy patrons, the social interaction is just as important as the espresso. Some cafes offer full-time Internet links so patrons can sip and chat with other Internet latte-drinkers.

Yoga, a Hindu system of stretching exercises for well-being, surges in popularity, mostly because the older generation seeks a technique for alleviating stress and finds yoga better than aerobics.

Aerobic boxing, with boxing-style leg and arm work, turns out to be one of the year's hot exercise trends, showing up in workout studios and attracting those who want to work off their aggression by throwing a right and a few jabs.

Besides recycled clothing like license-plate bustiers, bottle-cap jewelry, trash-bag and duct-tape dresses, fashion trends include the schoolgirl look with thigh-highs, and the grunge-turned-beatnik look of long, straight hair and a goatee.

A new survey shows that over 12 million Americans are vegetarians, choosing the no-meat lifestyle because of concern about animal cruelty, cost-efficiency, eco-friendliness and/or improved health and fitness.

The hottest merchandise around is Mighty Morphin Power Rangers, so hot Cabbage Patch dolls pale in comparison. Parents criticize Fox's super-violent TV show, but their kids crave Dragon Daggers, Megazords, and the 4-foot, $230 battery-powered car, "Go, go, Power Rangers!"

A hot new collectible derives from an old household item. Milk caps, known in some regions as poppers, have now gone funky with colorful printed designs and variations that are traded and used in games.

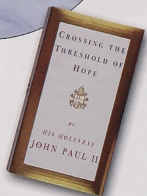

Although most are forced to settle for Oakley wrap-arounds, stylin' kids, like in-line skaters and urban youth, clamor for Arnet's $80 Ravens with the silver-chrome frames.

led by brash young skate and surf types, two million snowboarders nationwide discover the joy of swooping down slopes on one board instead of two. No hard boots, no poles, no crossed tips, make it easier than skiing. Since their giant frozen wave is a ski hill, snowboarders annoy old-style skiers who want their slopes left undisturbed by shredders.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

A horizontal bar with a grey and white marbled pattern, outlined in black, located below the title.

Coming in as a freshman at URI one often asks him or herself "how am I going to meet people" or "what can I get involved in"? Well, one thing URI doesn't lack is things to get involved in. Students can choose from over eighty clubs and organizations. Whether you're interested in riding horses, radio announcing or marketing, there's something for everyone. Thanks to students, URI has its own television station, radio station and newspaper. You don't have to try out to be a member of your favorite organization. All you have to do is want to participate and share your ideas.

Do you ever wonder who is responsible for the mini mall? If it weren't for the American Marketing Association there wouldn't be one. There would be no concerts, comedians or hypnotists to enjoy without the Student Entertainment Committee. In fact, without members of the Cigar and Renaissance, there would be no newspaper or yearbook, respectively.

By being a member of a club or organization you not only contribute a lot, but you gain a lot as well. It's an opportunity to make new friends and participate in social activities. If you're a member of the Outing Club you can go on camping trips. Ski club members compete in races every weekend during the winter season.

There's no doubt that the clubs and organizations at URI are a vital part of the campus community. Every student benefits from them, whether one is a member or not.

(Note: a number of the organizations were not photographed because they chose not to be. Thank you to those who were cooperative and arranged with the yearbook to be photographed.)

THANK YOU . . .

I would like to take this opportunity to thank a number of people whom I feel have contributed a lot of their time, effort and patience to the Renaissance yearbook staff and have made this 1995 edition possible. First of all, I'd like to give a big thanks to Norval Garnett, our Jostens Representative, for all of his time, patience and ideas. He has been with us a long time and is irreplaceable. I would also like to give a special thanks to Bruce Hamilton and Maureen McDermott, who have both given a lot of support to the yearbook, and especially to myself. I truly appreciate all of your help. I also want to give a thanks to the following: John Dewaele, our photography representative from T.D. Brown, Tom Dougan, for his help with providing the labels I always seemed to need, the scheduling office, namely Betty, for help scheduling rooms for senior pictures, the coaches, the people working the information desk who answered so many questions concerning the yearbook, and the presidents of the student organizations. Last but not least, I would like to thank my staff, especially Tina and Mary-Lyn, for all of their hard work this past year. Good luck next year. I hope everyone enjoys the book.

1995 Editor

THE COLOPHON

Volume 24 of the Renaissance was printed by Jostens Printing and Publishing Division of State College, Pennsylvania in August, 1995. Six hundred copies of the 1995 Renaissance were printed. The book contains 270 pages plus a 16 page World Beat insert put together by Jostens. The binding is sewn. The cover is 9x12 quarterbound, genuine leather with a shrunk leather grain. The color is navy #829. The ram is silkscreened on the cover. Application one is copper foil #382. Application two is copper #330. The endsheets are sandstone color #265 on front and black #325 on back. The entire book is printed on 80 pound glossy paper with the first 15 pages being varnished as well as pages 236 through 240. Primary typeface is style #23, Lydian. All typestyles are from Jostens Printing and Publishing Division. Senior portraits, graduation photos, and some candid photographs were taken by J.D. Brown Photography. Color candids were taken using Kodak film. Black and white photographs were taken using Kodak and Ilford films. All pages were submitted after the layouts were done by hand on layout sheets. Copyright ©1995 by the Renaissance.
